

Evolène (Valais) – 1'371m / 4'500ft

The Region of Evolène, set in the heart of the southern range of the Swiss Alps along the Italian border, has managed to preserve its original character and traditions in the 21st century.

In the summer, guests can feast their eyes on the superb mountain panorama, the most majestic peak no doubt being the Dent Blanche. The region offers 250 km of hiking trails, more than 100 km of marked mountain biking tracks, tennis, fishing, the VITA circuit... or for those with a real sense of adventure, the newly inaugurated via ferrata, as well as our mountaineering and climbing school. Paintball and paragliding are also enjoying increasing popularity. Moreover, the region of Evolène offers its visitors a wide range of cultural activities, including Evolène museum and a whole series of thematic excursions.

In the winter, the region of Evolène offers its visitors an awe-inspiring panorama and more than 100 km of outstanding ski slopes. In the direct vicinity of the region of Evolène, visitors can enjoy pleasant snowshoe walks, whilst the more adventurous may like to go heliskiing in the company of a mountain guide.

How to get there

Leaving the motorway from Lausanne or Brig, take the Sion-Est exit and follow the signs to Val d'Hérens. Evolène is situated in the Val d'Hérens, 25 km from Sion. Once you arrive at the village of Vex, turn left and follow the main road until you reach the entrance to Evolène village.

Upon your arrival at Evolène, enter the village. After 200m, you will see the shop "Gaudin Sports" and the restaurant "Taverne Evolénarde" on your left. You can leave your car in the car park here. You can then go down the path opposite the restaurant where will find Chalet Bellevue at the end of the path.

Private parking at disposal during the summer
